5-10 Pct. Hike In Farm Net Income Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Agriculture Department said today present prospects point to an increase of from 5 to 10 per cent in farmers' net income this year over last.

The net income is the amount farm operators have left after paying production expenses. The total net income last year was $1.5 billion.

The agency's latest report on the farm income situation based this forecast on the expectations that farm prices will average higher than last year and that a larger volume of some products will be produced.

A 5 per cent increase would put 1958 farm income in line with the $12.2 billion received in 1956 while a 10 per cent increase would put it at the highest level since 1953 when it was $13.8 billion.

The department said net income during the first quarter of this year was at an annual rate of $1.3 billion compared with $1.17 billion in the first quarter of last year. This figure was in line with estimates given by Secretary of Agriculture Benson last week.

TO CONTRIBUTE to the prospective higher income this year will be larger government payments to farmers under the soil bank land retirement program.

Cash receipts are expected to be higher this year for both crops and livestock, but more for the latter. The department said a substantial gain is being realized in receipts for cattle and calves. Receipts for hogs are also likely to exceed 1957 as marketing increases during the year while receipts probably trend downward.

The department said cash receipts from eggs and chickens, including broilers, are also expected to be larger than last year.

It said that on the other hand, lower price supports may result in some slight decline in dairy receipts, despite a further increase in production.

Larger returns than last year were forecast for such crops as cotton—because of higher price supports, wheat—because of a larger crop—and potatoes.

Cash receipts from marketing in the first quarter of this year were estimated at $6.9 billion, up 7 per cent from a year ago. No estimate was given for production costs for this period.

Queen Shuns Royal Film Performance

LONDON (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth II has turned down her invitation to this year's royal command film performance, ending an annual tradition of glittering nights at which the world's movie stars met Britain's royal family.

Stinging criticisms of the boms and the bloopers have often dominated the presentations.

Highway, Education, Tax Matters Reviewed

Plan for Future, Local Leaders Told

Fayette Countians should make wave" of population. He pointed out that, without careful planning, it will no longer be a question of 'Which college shall my child attend?" but rather 'Will any college have room for my son or daughter?"

These warnings came from three experts in their fields at an informal dinner meeting of approximately 50 city and county officials, business and professional men, school leaders and industrialists in the Hotel Washington banquet room Tuesday night.

The three speakers, introduced by Toastmaster Ray Randenburg, were Kline L. Roberts, Columbus attorney and majority leader of the Ohio House of Representatives, who reviewed the state's highway problems; Kenneth Arisman, special assistant to the president of Ohio State University, who presented a survey of new developments and problems of higher education, and Edwin Ducey, Washington C. H., associated with the Division of County Affairs in the Ohio Department of Taxation.

ROBERTS, director of Ohio Planning Conference and legal counsel for the Ohio Citizens Highway Council, called attention to the tremendous Ohio highway development program, given impetus by the federal Interstate road program which foots 90 per cent of the bill for throughway construction.

Pointing out that Ohio is destined for almost unbelievable expansion in population and productivity, Roberts emphasized the need for "prior planning", particularly in those communities which will be traversed by the vast network of limited access highways.

(The Cincinnati-Conneaut Freeway, which will be known as State Route 1, will pass through Fayette County on a line north of Washington C. H. yet to be selected).

These freeways, Roberts said, will change the complexion and the economy of local communities. It will be easier for Fayette Countians to go to the larger metropolitan centers, but more people who have jobs in larger cities will wish to live in smaller communities readily reached over high-speed roads, and there will be a rapid growth of subdivisions adjacent to the freeways.

These potential developments will require careful local government planning with reference to utilities, sewers and zoning to assure the right kind of growth, the speaker said.

During a question-and-answer session later in the evening, Trent Sickles, operator of the Hotel Washington, observed that industrial expansion is following the routes of the new turnpikes, a factor to be considered in overall planning by local governments.

ARISMAN'S REMARKS covered the problems created in the field of higher education by the "tidal

Jaycees Take Lead toward Cleaner WCH

Neighbor, have you been planning a good spring cleaning of your front yard...and somehow let it slip by?

Or have you been "just waiting for the proper time" to give those pretty but somewhat shabby or n shutters a daub of paint?

Or is rescreening of the back porch one of those things you "just haven't had time for yet?"

If so, you are the sort of person the Junior Chamber of Commerce is looking for, starting today. The Jaycees, under the direction of Jack Lyons, civic improvement chairman, have declared this week "Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up" week all over Washington C. H.

"THIS IS the time when we'll pay special attention to something we should have been watching all year long," Lyons commented for the committee, explaining: "We hope the whole town will join us in helping to make Washington C. H. a healthy and attractive place in which to live."

To give them help, the Jaycees are hoping the whole town will roll up its sleeves and pitch in. "We hope that people will use these next few days to catch up on all the projects of cleaning, painting and fixing what they've let slip all year long—and that they'll get a good start on next year, too," Lyons said.

The Jaycees themselves are attacking the program from a variety of angles. There'll be a street cleanup campaign, a house-to-house city inspection, and the Jaycees members, who range in age from 21 to 35, will devote a lot of time to getting their own new clubhouse into shape.

TODAY the Jaycees attacked their first major project: a house-to-house inspection of yards and gardens in the city, under the supervision of the Fayette County Board of Health. If yards aren't reasonably clean—if there are trash piles and such things in them—notes to that effect will be put up, signed by County Sanitarian John Todd.

Saturday is the big day for the Jaycees' observance of the special "week." Item on the schedule for that day is the four trucks—two from the city and two from the county—that will tour the city picking up trash.

The trucks are being donated for help in the Jaycee project by city and county officials. Starting early in the morning, they will pick up any trash that is sacked and placed at the curb. They hope to be finished by mid-day.

ANOTHER MAJOR project on the Saturday schedule, will start at noon. That's when a team of nine Jaycees, clad in the elegant white jackets of street cleaners, attack the streets of downtown Washington C. H. with pushbrooms and garbage trailers, giving the streets a cleaning the like of which they very possibly have not been.

"The streets can always use it," (Please Turn to Page Twenty-Four)

THIS PILE OF TRASH lining the shore of Paint Creek, apparently has successfully resisted hauling away for several years. Pretty, isn't it?

Ike Defends Pentagon Plan

President Is Angered By Some Criticism

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower said today it is just as sensible to say Congress is going nuts and will abolish the Defense Department as it is to contend that he wants a single military service.

Eisenhower angrily told a questioner at his news conference that his defense reorganization plan, under bipartisan attack in Congress, will not weaken the individual services.

Eisenhower said he is asking certain operational command authority for the secretary of defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff but these services will not be weakened by such a change.

Shortly before Eisenhower spoke out, Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy told Congress he could not live with the limitation on the size of his civilian staff advocated by congressional critics of the reorganization plan.

The direct conflict was injected hearings before the House Armed Services Committee on the White House proposal.

THE EFFECT of the rival plan would be to shift still greater emphasis to the separate branches. At the same time McElroy put off until Friday the delivery of written replies to questions put to him Tuesday by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga).

Vinson asked McElroy to submit written answers to a series of pointed questions. They added up to a demand that McElroy spell out in detail why he needs additional authority and how he would exercise the added powers.

Got That 'Spring Feeling'?

It's spring again, and Mr. and Mrs. Good Citizen are giving thought to making their premises as presentable as possible—inside and out.

The active Washington C. H. Jaycee organization is at the forefront in a "Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up" campaign which should receive the support of every civic-minded Washingtonian.

But the "spring feeling" includes more than that. Today's edition of The Record-Herald not only brings you "Clean-Up" ideas, but you'll find interesting and helpful information, in ad and story, regarding home decoration and furnishings.

Cost of Living Hits Record High

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soaring food prices sent the government living cost index up seven-tenths of 1 per cent in March to a new record high.

Fresh vegetables alone were higher by 12 per cent from February to March. Adverse growing conditions since December continued to curtail supplies.

Cague said he finds some comfort in price cuts in March for such things as coffee, carrots and bananas. He said they may indicate somewhat lower prices for other food items in the months ahead.

The new living cost hike means 2 per cent, ham 3.1 per cent, frankfurters 2.7 per cent, round steak 2.0 per cent, and pork chops 1.1 per cent. Bacon and leg of lamb costs decreased slightly.

Most other living cost categories registered mild increases.

March meat prices were up 2.1 per cent, and egg prices jumped 11.3 per cent.

Frank Theobald Met Death In Crash; Body Is Identified

Frank A. Theobald, 36, San Bernardino, Calif., a native of Fayette County, met death with 46 other passengers on a United Airlines DC7 when it crashed in flames near Las Vegas following a mid-air collision with an Air Force Supersonic jet fighter-bomber over Nevada Monday morning. The two men in the jet plane also were killed.

Ewan Cague, labor statistics commissioner, reported that he expects food costs to begin to level off in April and decline later in the summer as more fresh food supplies reach market.

However, he declined to predict any drop in living costs for April, but said the government index would likely not move very much either up or down.

This was Cague's explanation why living costs have continued climbing despite the business recession: "People have got to eat."

The cost of living index has increased in 17 of the past 19 months, and has declined only once in the past 27 months.

The bureau reported prices for fruits and vegetables increased 5.1 per cent from February to

Fall Fatal to Man

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Nathaniel Hill, 57, died in a fall Tuesday from a third floor window at his home to a sidewalk below

Funeral Home, cannot be made, Mrs. Dews said until further word is received from the Air Force.

Theobald, an expeditor for the missile division of the Air Force, is the son of Russell Theobald, Route 62, near Buena Vista. In his work, he traveled extensively, and two or three times a year took the opportunity to stop here to visit his family and friends. He was here last during the Christmas holidays.

Airline Pilots Rap Stunting Jets

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two commercial pilots complain that stunting Air Force jets endangered their airliners over Nevada less than eight hours after Monday's collision that killed 49.

The report was made Tuesday to the Civil Aeronautics Board by Capt. Al Shelly of Continental Airlines and Capt. Robert Chase of American Airlines.

Six F100 jet fighters began aerobatics near the airliners, which were carrying a total of 93 passengers, the pilots said.

Congressmen already have urged investigations into rules governing the use of air space by military planes.

New Pleadings Filed In Miami Trace Case

Two new pleadings have been filed in the Miami Trace School District's bond suit still pending before the Ohio Supreme Court.

One is an answer presented by Mrs. Senath Thompson, board clerk, who was named defendant in the school district's friendly action to test its $1,652,500 bond issue for construction of a new county high school and improve existing buildings.

The other pleading is a demurral by six citizens who were granted court permission to intervene in the proceedings.

Mrs. Thompson has answered the board's test petition which claimed for purposes of court argument that she failed to take necessary steps for sale of the voted bonds.

THE CLERK admits material allegations in the board's petition but claims that since the intervening taxpayers have made claims against the validity of the bond issue she is "doubtful" of her duties and for that reason refuses to proceed with the sale.

The answer cites the intervenors' charges that (1) the Fayette County Board of Education failed to call a convention to select a Citizens Committee; (2) that the board spent school funds illegally for advertising; (3) that the proceeds from the bonds for a football stadium; (4) that no provision has been made for payment of interest and the first installment of the bonds when due; (5) that transfers of territory from the Miami Trace district, made or pending, would make the bond issue exceed the statutory debt limitation, and that (6) the board acted in bad faith and abuse of discretion.

Six Speeding Cases In Municipal Court

Charges of excessive speed put six of seven cases on Judge Max Dice's Municipal Court docket Wednesday. The remaining case sent a man to jail until he pays an old fine.

After pleading guilty to charges of speeding, Leroy G. Denny, 52, Circleville, was fined $10 and costs by Judge Dice.

Denny was the only alleged speeder who appeared in Court Wednesday. Forfeiting bonds on their failure to appear on speeding charges were: Everett G. Fiscus, 20, Tarentua, Pa., $20 bond; William S. Davidson, 28, Lorain, $20 bond; Everett C. Walters, 40, Springfield, $15 bond; Wanda Wiesniewski, 34, Hamtramck, Mich., $30 bond.

J. O. George, 29, Columbus, charged with failure to yield right-of-way, forfeited $15 bond. His alleged infraction resulted in a wreck last Friday at Temple and Lewis Sts., in which four people were injured. Her original arrest charge, running a stop sign, was amended to the failure to yield.

Picked up on bench warrant, William E. Oyer, 38, Lyndon was committed to jail until the balance (about $23) of an old fine and costs is paid.

Three Are Treated After Accidents

A man, a woman and a child were treated in the emergency room at Memorial Hospital Tuesday for accidental injuries.

Receiving treatment after she fell down the basement steps, cutting her head and injuring her wrist, was Mrs. Jesse Mark of Route 3.

Gary Weeter of Route 4 was treated after he cut his finger on a bread-slicer at the Pennington Bakery, CCC Highway, west.

Treated for a head cut after she fell against a water tank was Vicki Mootispaw, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mootispaw of 928 Lakeview Ave.

Township Roads To Get Attention

Trustees Lay Plans For Maintenance

The condition of the Union Township roads, and what can be done to restore them from the winter's damage, were the chief subject for discussion at Tuesday night's regular meeting of the township trustees.

Their supporting brief holds that the school board has no real controversy with its clerk although it may have one with the Fayette County Budget Commission which refused to place a tax levy on the duplicate to pay interest and principal on the bonds.

The other pleading is a demurral by six citizens who were granted court permission to intervene in the proceedings.

Mrs. Thompson has answered the board's test petition which claimed for purposes of court argument that she failed to take necessary steps for sale of the voted bonds.

THE CLERK admits material allegations in the board's petition but claims that since the intervening taxpayers have made claims against the validity of the bond issue she is "doubtful" of her duties and for that reason refuses to proceed with the sale.

ATTORNEYS for the board are attempting to have the case heard on its merits before the Supreme Court's summer recess.

The case originally went to the state tribunal a year ago as an action in mandamus.

One issue raised in the case — the powers of a Citizens Committee vs. the powers of a board of education — already has been decided in favor of Miami Trace.

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Recently a local woman, in response to a knock on her door, was greeted by a young woman who was accompanied by two small children.

"We are hungry and have no food and would like to have some money to get bread" said the two.

The woman of the house promptly gave her a loaf of bread, and was met with the information that "we need money to buy other food", so she was given a small sum of money, and to the two small youngsters and disappeared.

About a week later the same woman, accompanied by the two children, again applied for money to buy food. It was the same story—she and the children were without food and hungry—so the woman again gave her a small sum of money.

Suspecting that the woman was a professional beggar, the woman watched to see where she and the children went, and saw them go inside a neighborhood grocery, and soon reappear without any packages.

Calling the grocer the woman related the circumstances concerning the beggar and two children, and asked what was purchased by the woman with the children.

"The only thing she bought was a package of cigarettes" said the grocer.

Request has been made that the police be notified should the beggar again appear in the city, and a full investigation will be made.

MULLEIN, THE PANACEA?

I remember as a small boy mother used to give me, as well as other members of the family, mullein tea. As I recall, we kept a supply of dried mullein leaves on hand for use whenever needed for this, that or the other.

I do not recall whether the mullein tea was for colds, hives, chicken pox, sore throat or as a general conditioner, but I do recall having used the tea more than once for some childhood ailment.

I thought of these things a few days ago when I saw the dried, brown mullein stalks, some five feet or more in height, at the roadside in Jasper Township, and how this herb, with its large, light-green, soft, woolly leaves and long spikes of yellow blossoms, grows abundantly in the county, as well as elsewhere in Ohio.

It was one "weed" I always hesitated to cut with a hoe when, as a farm boy, I wielded such an instrument.

Mullein, sometimes called mullein dock, is generally well known to farm residents and many city folks as well.

I knew from recollections of the past, that mullein must have some real medicinal or curative properties, so I referred to a very old medical book I have in my collection, by Horton Howard and H. M. Rulison, listed as "Howard's Domestic Medicine for the People".

This old book is replete with information regarding use of common herbs found growing in Ohio for curative purposes, and on Page 873 of the big volume I found this interesting treatise on mullein (Verbascum thapsus):

"This valuable plant is too common to need any description, growing in old fields, wastes, by the roadside, etc.

"The leaves are used instead of flannel for friction, and dipped in hot water or medicated decoctions they are valuable for fomentations. Also useful in poultices applied to swellings in contracted sinews.

"A strong tea, taken internally, is good for ague, croup, asthma, cough, bleeding at the lungs, and externally, in wash, for piles, scalds, and burns.

"The flowers are said to be better than the leaves; perhaps the seeds may be still better; they are recommended for children with hives.

"A fine relaxing oil, we are informed, may be made from the flowers by putting them into a vial bottle, corking it tight, and placing it in the sun".

Good Grooming Questions Answered for Modern Girl

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Beauty Editor

Young people seem to have more grooming problems than anybody. Charm is what they seek, and the key is elusive. Questions by girls point up age-old problems, some that may have stymied Cleopatra.

Q. My daughter looks horrible in makeup. She uses my cosmetics. Her cheeks are made up to look like ripe oranges, her lashes are beaded with mascara, she smears her mouth.

A. Maybe you'd better get lighter makeup or teach your daughter to apply it. Many a daughter reflects mother's bad techniques.

Q. Is there a rule about what to bring when you are a weekend guest? Should you supply your own cleansing tissues and soap?

A. Soap should be supplied by your hostess. But you should have your own toothbrush, paste, tissues, lotions and cosmetics. Take with you, too, a quantity of face powder and cotton balls for removing eye makeup or fingernail polish.

Q. Must you wear a chemise dress, must you conform in hairdo, makeup and shoes?

A. A ponytail or another extreme hairstyle would look ridiculous with a chemise dress, but a simple hairstyle that becomes you certainly should look just as smart as the severe hairdos of the 1920s. Makeup can be usual. Shoes are more to the point.

Q. I dread wearing short dresses because my knees are so fat and ugly. Is there anything I can do to reduce them?

A. Sit with your feet flat on the floors, legs spread about one-foot apart. Now slap your knees together hard. Do this whenever you think about it. A general reducing program combined with exercise will work wonders if you are overweight.

Q. My hair is falling out at an alarming rate. Is there anything I can do to stop it? Should I wear a wig? The thought appalls me.

A. You should see a doctor for treatment. Meantime, you may wear hair pieces to cover up bald spots. If the hair does not grow back within a reasonable time, by all means get a wig, if you can afford it. You'd be amazed how

Great Pretender

MADISON, Wis. (AP)

Harry A. Deadman was fined $15 after he pretended to be dead drunk.

The 19-year-old youth was lifted into a squad car when he was found on the street, apparently helpless. Deadman sobered immediately and explained he merely was amusing himself by pretending to be drunk.

Police were not amused. They charged their complaint from drunkenness to disorderly conduct, and the court fined him $15.

GOP Leader Chides Dems On Water Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) challenged congressional Democrats Tuesday to drop their fight against a veto and get behind a water projects bill President Eisenhower can approve.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, said he does not believe Democrats can muster the required two-thirds vote to override Eisenhower's veto last week of the $1 1/2 billion measure.

Senate leaders made no move to bring the issue to an immediate vote. Instead, the vetoed bill was sent to the Senate Public Works Committee, where Chairman Chavez (D-N.M.) said he intends to hear people interested in the projects. He said the hearings may last a long time.

"There is ample time to pass a bill the President could sign if the Democrats are interested in flood control and not just in playing politics," Knowland said.

Eisenhower said in his veto message the rejected measure contained 28 projects costing about $350 million he could not approve "without destroying some of the most important government policies in the field of water resources development."

Discovery of Remedy for Atomic Wastes

In view of all the controversy relating to dangers from "fall outs" and radioactive wastes, satisfaction is expressed that scientists have now come out with a discovery of a method for converting these deadly wastes into useful materials that can benefit medicine, industry and research.

The problem of how to make use of such products and how to prevent danger to the public has given scientists much to think about.

For a long time all over the country there have been warnings of possible disaster in further pursuit of achievements of the nuclear age.

Lack of confidence on the part of the public in what science could do to harness the tremendous atomic power being developed within the past decade, so as to make the wastes of such power less dangerous, has caused great arguments.

The nuclear wastes have been known as the "black beasts" of atomic energy.

Models Can't Be Voluptuous

NEW YORK (AP)—The average husband, thumbing through his wife's style gazettes, is convinced that most fashion models are human beanoes in need of a blood transfusion.

One of his constant fears is that his wife, wearing the same clothes, will come home looking that way, too—that is, rather like a basketball center in skirts.

Somehow word got around recently that the new sack look would change all this. The rumor spread that fashion models now would look less like a vertical clothes line and more like, well, Marilyn Monroe.

We have checked this rumor with Mrs. Roz O'Rourke Foy, an authority in such matters, and she says she can't understand how such a falsehood ever started.

"A fashion model definitely still must be slim," said Mrs. Foy, who with her husband, Bill Foy, a former photographer, operates a model agency that stocks 50 of the town's leading gazelles.

"She can't be voluptuous—along Marilyn Monroe's lines.

By Hal Boyle

"On the average, I would say they aren't quite so tall," she acknowledged. "Years ago 5 feet 8½ seemed to be the standard. Now the most popular size is between 5 feet 5½ and 5 feet 7½. But it is probably only because the taller girls are in short supply."

Really top models always seem to be in short supply, she added, explaining:

"It takes at least five years for a girl to become a really polished model."

Models make from $25 an hour up to $50 or more and theoretically at least, can earn up to $50,000 a year. Oddly enough, the greatest occupational disease of fashion models isn't the wrinkles of age, it's sore feet.

"They have to stand up as long as a salesgirl," said Mrs. Foy, "and many just can't bear up under the foot punishment. Their shoes become torture chambers."

"As a matter of fact," she says defiantly, "if there is a trend it is this: Bosoms are on the way out of the fashion picture and legs are back in."

A girl with these measurements, Mrs. Foy feels, is much closer to the ideal of feminine beauty than is Marilyn Monroe.

A fellow who takes a model out on a date doesn't have to worry so much about low bridges.

"Good legs are tremendously important. A girl with bad legs is just out of luck."

The ideal measurements for a fashion model, I'd say, are 34-inch bust, 23-inch waist and 34-inch hips."

A girl with these measurements, Mrs. Foy feels, is much closer to the ideal of feminine beauty than is Marilyn Monroe.

A fellow who takes a model out on a date doesn't have to worry so much about low bridges.

"Yet I know some models who are still making a good living at 45, although I'm sure they'd die rather than admit they're that old."

similar movements of protest are different from what they believe them to be.

Often, it is accidental; often it is loneliness, the eternal search for friends; often it is a revolt from the ugliness of living in foul-smelling, noisy tenements.

Fast can, if he will, serve America faithfully and valuably for the rest of his years.

Dry leftover slices of stale bread in a slow oven until crisp and lightly browned, then put through the fine blade of a food chopper for uniform crumbs.

How To Help Child Overcome His Fears

By HERMAN N. BUNDESH, M.D.

FEAR exists in all of us, particularly in children. And it's up to you parents to help your youngsters cope with the problem.

Fear of darkness is one of the most common experienced by youngsters. You can and should help them overcome it, but you have to know how to handle the situation or you are apt to make a real mess of things.

Useful Mistakes

When your youngster complains of the darkness, don't make the usual mistake of advising him: "Only little babies are afraid of the dark."

This will only shame him and prevent him from expressing himself freely to you and your spouse.

A much better approach is to have a "man-to-man" talk with the child. Tell him that you realize that he is frightened and ask him to explain why.

Try to recall your own childhood fears and how you developed them. It might help you understand those of your children.

Don't Force Him

Don't force a child to do anything that causes him to be frightened in the belief that it will show him there is nothing to fear.

It's unwise to expose him to

Ticklishness Said Largely State of Mind

DETROIT (AP)—Ticklishness largely is a state of mind. What tickles today might not tomorrow.

So runs the conclusion of two experts on the subject—Drs. John S. Meyer, chairman of neurology at Wayne State University's medical school, and Clyde B. Simpson, chief of child psychiatry at Lafayette Clinic.

They delved into the mechanics of tickling and came up with some interesting answers.

"We think ticklishness is a composite of several emotional feelings," Dr. Simpson told interviewers.

The skin is important in expressing a gamut of emotions, Dr. Meyer said, explaining thus:

"The tickling sensation requires an intact nerve system. It is an individual reaction to repetitive light stimulation of areas where usually the nerve endings are close together, as the soles of the feet, also in areas usually protected against injury, such as the ribs."

The stimulus is transferred to the brain where it is interpreted as a tickle or a blow, he added.

Some stolid or older persons are not ticklish at all, and Dr. Meyer said seriousness reduces ticklishness.

Tickling sensations can be brought on by suggestion, Dr. Simpson said. If a person is confined, tickling is likely to begin and helplessness increases the intensity.

The doctors said it remains to be proved whether women are more ticklish than men.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—For Frank Meade Alcorn takes the cake, coffee, knives, forks, spoons, napkins and tablecloth.

As chairman of the Republican National Committee he's supposed to spark and pep-talk the Republicans to victory in next November's congressional elections.

Tuesday he admitted he does not think his party can win the Senate and predicted only a bare majority for it in the House.

Could anyone remember such forthrightness from the chairman of a national political committee—Republican or Democratic? This writer took a very small poll at once among newspapermen. None could remember.

But the 50-year-old Alcorn, a Hartford, Conn., lawyer, had rapidly been leading up to Tuesday's predictions which, however true they may be, can hardly make him popular with all Republicans.

Like all other Republican party chairmen before him, he did the usual with gusto: slam-banging the Democrats. As time went on—judging from the increasing gloom of his April statements—he became less hopeful of victory.

This was his stated reason for his gloom about the Senate: "Because so many Senate seats exposed this fall are in traditional Democratic territory."

Alcorn was President Eisenhower's choice for party chairman and the national committee duly elected him. That was Jan. 22, 1957.

Immediately, there was a mixed reaction within the party on the wisdom of picking Alcorn, considered liberal.

Highly conservative Rep. Hoffman, Michigan Republican, reacted at once this way: "The conservative wing of the Republican party has been liquidated and is about to be buried."

Alcorn's job pays him no salary. Since January 1957, he has traveled many thousands of miles around the United States, making speeches, trying to stimulate Republicans' confidence in themselves and public support for them.

As time went on the baggage he had to carry got heavier by the month. He had to spend a lot of his time defending the Eisenhower administration from attacks on its fiscal and foreign policies, its missile program, and its handling of the recession.

Like all other Republican party chairmen before him, he did the usual with gusto: slam-banging the Democrats. As time went on—judging from the increasing gloom of his April statements—he became less hopeful of victory.

Of the 34 Senate seats involved in the November elections, 21 now are held by Republicans. Of the 13 Democratic seats, six are in the Democratic South.

So Republicans will be running far the greater risk. An insurmountable risk, Alcorn seems to feel.

Another Premier Of France Sought

PARIS (AP)—President Rene Coty moved back to the political center today in his search for a new French premier. He summoned Rene Pleven after Georges Bidault, advocate of a tougher North African policy, couldn't get his own party to back his attempt to form a government.

Coty sent a special plane to the north of France for Pleven, the President's second nominee for the task of trying to solve the crisis which began eight days ago with the resignation of Premier Felix Gaillard.

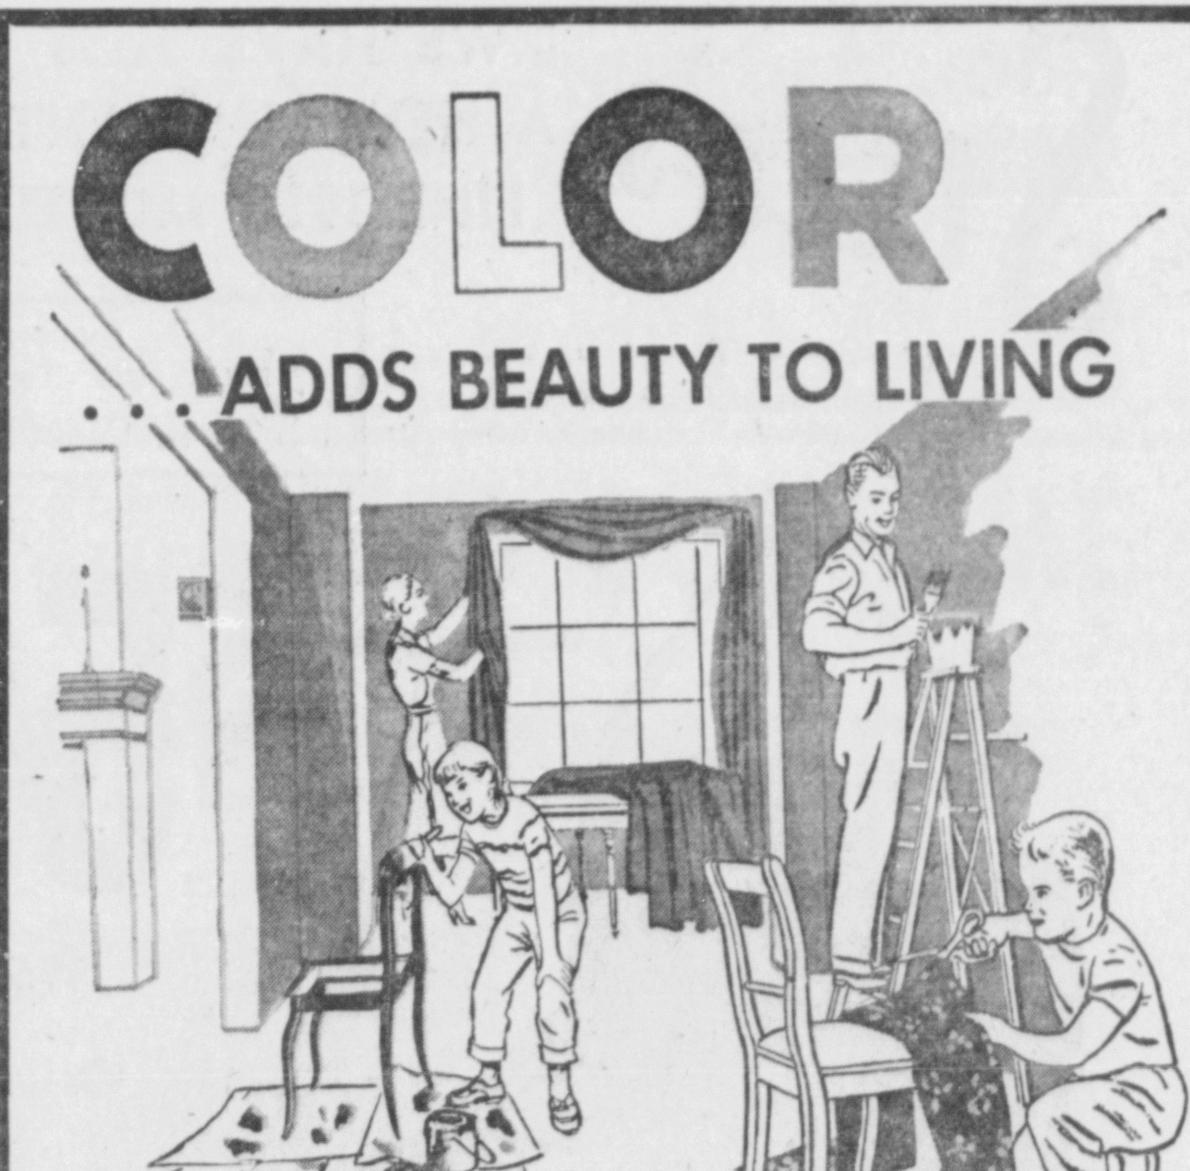

Pleven tried unsuccessfully last October to form a government before Gaillard succeeded.

Even efficient housekeepers sometimes forget to clean spouts of teapots. Keep a package of pipe cleaners handy in a cabinet drawer for this important task. Rinse the teapot, insert a double pipe cleaner in the spout and carefully turn to remove tannin stains; you may have to do this once more but this method usually leaves the spout spotlessly clean.

O'Neill, Noble To Make Sure Of Road Fund

Ohio Chiefs Going To Washington for Checkup on Finances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill and his highway chief, Charles M. Noble, fly to Washington today to spur Ohio's big road building program.

They want to make sure that about 24 million dollars in additional federal money will be available shortly for additional projects and more jobs to help ease unemployment in the state.

About 15 million dollars of the extra money will be spent on secondary highways throughout Ohio if the Bureau of Public Roads approves the projects, Noble explained.

That means that counties can qualify for at least one more project this year than contemplated under the nearly two million dollar allocation of federal funds already provided.

Projects must be submitted by May 1, however, and contracts let by Dec. 1, subject to approval of the federal bureau. O'Neill and Noble will ask Sen. John W. Bricker and Ohio Republican congressmen to go to bat against any delays in Washington that might block additional Buckeye construction.

Chalmers P. Wylie, the governor's executive assistant, also will make the trip to Washington for the dinner meeting in the Statler Hotel. O'Neill, Noble and Wylie will return to Columbus Thursday.

"The projects must be limited in scope and require a minimum of engineering work such as road widening and resurfacing," Noble explained. "There isn't enough time to go from a standing start."

"I feel sure that the bureau is just as anxious as Congress to get this work out so people can get jobs."

"We are prepared in Ohio to take full advantage of the money but we will need cooperation of the Bureau of Public Roads in streaming procedures."

Noble expressed belief that an extra nudge from Ohio lawmakers will help induce the bureau to find a way to cut red tape at a meeting in Chicago next Monday.

Bureau officials and representatives of the various states will attempt to work out a hurry-up program for using the extra 600 million dollars appropriated by Congress for highways.

After a meeting of the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials, state and federal officials will get down to the business of cutting corners in approving projects.

Under the new appropriation act signed last Thursday by President Eisenhower, Ohio will get about $1.5 million dollars for interstate highways.

That will leave these sums for other roads: 6.4 million for primary roads, 3.4 million for feed

Todd Named State Officer Of Sanitarians

John G. Todd, sanitarian for the Fayette County Health Department, has been given honorary recognition by being elected to the board of directors of the Ohio Assn. of Public Health Sanitarians.

There are approximately 600 sanitarians in Ohio, and the state association has a membership of 500.

Some noted speakers in the field of environmental sanitation were on the program for a recent state meeting in Columbus where officers were elected. Todd said much of the session was directed to the topic of professionalization for the sanitarian in the immediate future.

The state association has been operating under a voluntary certification program for sanitarians. The present two year old certification system, Todd said, is aimed at raising the standards of sanitarians employed by cities, counties and the state health department, and to provide recognition to qualified persons.

He explained that in order to qualify for certification a candidate must meet the state association's standards for satisfactory education and experience in the field of sanitation, pass a written test and undergo a personal interview before the association's certification board.

Jackson Jibes At 4 Fellow Candidates

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Clingan Jackson verbally pushed aside four fellow candidates seeking the Democratic nomination for governor and then ignored two others in his talk here Tuesday.

He took jabs at Robert N. Gorman, who also spoke at the Democratic rally here, Michael DiSalle, Albert Porter and Anthony Celebreeze. He spared the verbal lashing from Maynard Sensenbrenner, another speaker, and Mrs. Vivienne Suarez.

Jackson, political editor of the Youngstown Vindicator, said DiSalle was a "warmed over candidate" and a "Pied Piper who will lead the party as disastrously as the Pied Piper of the story book led the children."

Gorman, Jackson said, "is a leftover from the (former Gov.) Daway administration of the 1930s."

Porter, he charged, "represents the Ray Miller machine which (former Gov.) Lausche kicked around for 10 years."

In his attack on Celebreeze, Jackson said the Cleveland mayor "has all the Democratic organizations of the state sore at him."

Gorman agreed with Jackson on three candidates — Porter, Celebreeze and DiSalle.

The former State Supreme Court judge said neither Porter nor Celebreeze could win because they are cutting each other up in Cuyahoga County. He also downgraded DiSalle.

Turning to issues, Gorman urged state aid to help parents pay for training of retarded children.

Sensenbrenner promised to rid the state of "filthy comic books."

The Columbus mayor, however, admitted he had been unable to do this in Columbus, "but we failed because there was too much money against us."

He also chastised the federal government for spending "billions to dent the moon" with rockets.

er roads and nearly six million for urban projects.

Noble said that once the red tape is cleared away, Ohio could count on getting the additional work under way. He said about 570 contractors are qualified for highway construction.

Only about 200 of them actually will land state contracts during the year under Ohio's system of competitive bidding, officials estimated.

In 1957, a total of 190 road builders got 552 contracts. A total of 227 contracts that year were for between $50,000 and $100,000.

Forty-six contracts ranged from $100,000 to a million dollars and 48 others ranged between a million and seven million dollars.

BLOOMINGBURG — The public is invited to attend the Bloomingburg High School spring concert to be held in the school auditorium at 8 p. m. Thursday.

The program, under the direction of Robert Sabin, the music instructor, will include numbers by both junior and senior bands and the vocal groups.

Bloomingburg Gets Localized Rainstorm

BLOOMINGBURG — Bloomingburg was well wetted down Tuesday about noon as a heavy localized rainstorm hit the village. Approximately one inch of rain fell in the immediate village area in the 20-minute downpour.

Some small hail fell during the storm, but the amount was negligible. Winds were light, and did no damage. Rural residents and farmers just outside the village limits said rainfall there was appreciably less than that reported within the town.

Lana, Ex-Mate Faces Lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A $750,000 suit was filed against Lana Turner and her former husband Tuesday on behalf of John Stompanato's son.

The suit charged that parental negligence on behalf of the actress and Stephen Crane led to the fatal butcher knife stabbing of Stompanato by the couple's 14-year-old daughter, Cheryl.

The suit was filed by TV director Jack Harris, recently appointed guardian for Stompanato's 10-year-old son, John, whose mother, Sarah Ibrahim, lives in Hammond, Ind. She was the first of Stompanato's three wives.

Mementoes Build Living Wall

By VIVIAN BROWN

Anything goes on the wall these days. This news should please the man whose wife picks up odds and ends at antique shops and shows, only to hear him ask: "Now, what are you going to do with that?"

She can tell him now, without blinking an eyelash, that she is going to use her new "treasures" to brighten up the house.

There is something about an old sampler or a whale oil lamp that makes a home look like it had roots.

If she doesn't visit the antique booths, she can get a lived-in look by exhibiting some of the memorabilia in the attic trunk. Old birth certificates, children's diplomas and honor awards, father's service records and mother's garden club ribbons, may all be used to brighten up a room area.

The small antiques — samplers, silhouettes, coats of arms, prints, keys, carvings, Civil War mementoes, primitive portraits, wooden cookie boards, fans, dessert and butter molds, candlesticks, are very popular these days. The predictions are that these items will be in greater demand than ever at the New York antiques Fair this season.

A LITTLE HALL or a foyer is an ideal place to display a collection of old items. A sleigh seat formed the focal point for one such grouping. On one side of the seat there is an old butter churn. Above it are six signed American silhouettes, birdprints dating to 1742, a sampler dated 1839, and flower prints grouped in frames.

On either side are some old gas lighting fixtures filled with ivy. An American eagle spreads his wings above the seat and a powder horn hangs between the bird pictures.

A COLLECTION of samplers above a bachelor chest makes a charming display for a man's room. A dry sink also takes interestingly to the idea of wall groupings.

A few shelves above the sink, in one instance, was used to display an 18th century whale oil lamp, patent medicine bottles, brass mortars and pestles, an antique coffee grinder, and a pair of signed American silhouettes.

It's a good idea, however, to plan your display before pounding nails or picture hooks into the wall. Here is a method recommended by antique dealers:

Mark off with a string on a flat surface, such as a carpet or bare floor, the dimensions of the wall you plan to decorate. Arrange the objects you wish to use within this area, and study the layout from a few feet away. If you have a stepladder handy, climb up and look down upon the arrangement to give yourself a good perspective.

ARRANGE the objects in different patterns until they are pleasing to your eye. Balance off pairs of objects, and make sure that they

Wins Clemency

PARIS (AP) — The death sentence of Gen. Karl Albrecht Oberg, known as "The Butcher of Paris" in World War II, has been commuted to life imprisonment by President Rene Coty.

He and Col. Helmut Knochen were condemned by a French military tribunal Oct. 9, 1954, on charges of executing more than 1,000 French hostages. Knochen's sentence also was commuted.

Lawyers for Oberg and Knochen argued that the defendants were not personally responsible for the deaths but carried out orders of higher authorities.

Some Experts Regret Pleas For Savings

Word on Money Now Is To Spend To Help Defeat Recessions

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Remember when they were urging you to save? Savings were needed as a source of investment funds for the expansion of the economy.

Well, some are showing concern now that so many people took this advice. The word today is to buy. Without doubt buying would bolster some sagging industries and thus the whole economy.

Both bits of advice are good. But moderation is the key word here.

Saving still is needed—both for the safety of the family putting away a nestegg and for the investment funds that industry needs now and will need still more in the years ahead.

Buying is needed if the recession in certain industries is to be curbed and the present expanded industrial capacity of the nation is to be used fully.

While the jump in the rate of saving is laid by some to a feeling of insecurity and worry over the future, other possible reasons are cited—and some of these can be changed.

One may be a widespread feeling that prices may come down later—a chance that most manufacturers stoutly declare is unlikely because of the continuing rise in their operating costs.

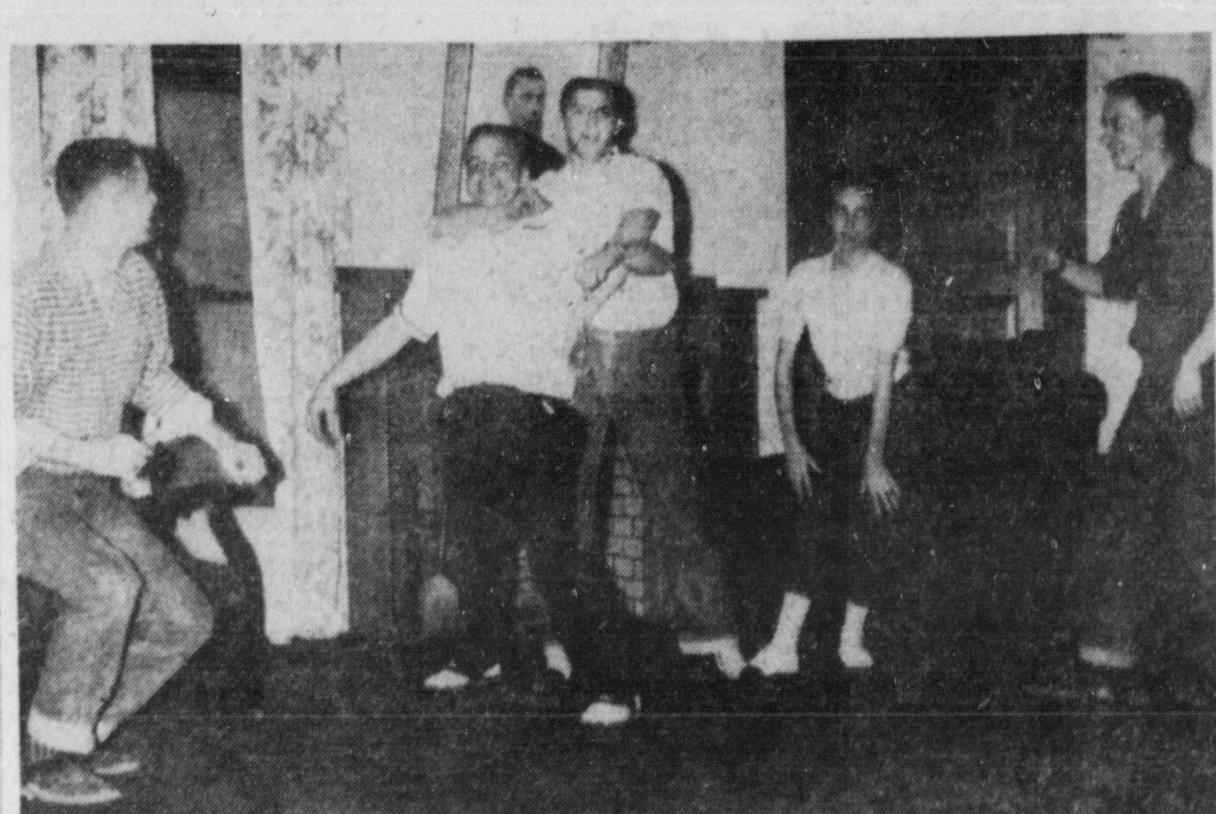

Over-all spending continues high. The Department of Commerce says it has dipped a bit, about in line with the drop in total consumer income due to factory layoffs and shorter work weeks.

It's the durable consumer goods—those big ticket items you expect to last you for quite a while—that have suffered.

Americans are now spending 10% per cent of their take home pay on such things as automobiles, appliances and home furnishings. This is the lowest percentage since 1946. About four-fifths of this drop of 4% billion dollars is due to fewer auto sales.

The auto and appliance industries—aided by many communities putting on "buy now" promotions—are trying to combat this.

At the retail level the directors of the National Retail Merchants Assn. are urging their 10,300 member department, chain and specialty stores to woo customers

Freshman Senator Named as Prober

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Church (D-Idaho) has been appointed a member of the Senate-Rackets Investigating Committee, succeeding Sen. McNamara (D-Mich).

Church, youngest member of the Senate, will take over a post that McNamara resigned after a controversy over committee procedure. The committee is equally divided membership between Republicans and Democrats.

Church has been regarded as a member of the liberal wing of the Democratic party with strong pro-labor views. He is 33.

'World Citizen' Returns to U. S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Garry Davis arrived Tuesday from Italy as an immigrant, eager to regain the American citizenship he renounced in 1948 to become a world citizen.

The 34-year-old son of band leader Meyer Davis said as he arrived: "I realize now I can't make world peace alone."

He added that his renunciation of his citizenship was "never an act of disloyalty or lack of affection for the United States."

He said he "will be a responsible U. S. citizen" if his citizenship is restored.

U.S. Money Doctors Rescue Millions

By JAMES NEVIN MILLER
A farmer living near Cleveland had a sad experience recently. He was feeding his livestock when he dropped his pocketbook, containing $32, into a stall where his pet calf was enjoying its dinner.

The animal chewed up the pocketbook. The money represented the farmer's total cash on hand.

The farmer killed the calf, sent the half-masticated bills to Washington and got back a fat check.

Then there was the fellow in Atlanta who didn't want his wife to know he had saved $200. So he salted it away in what he thought was an abandoned carpet sweeper in the cellar.

About a week later he learned to his horror that the little woman not only had been using the sweeper. She had thrown its contents into a blazing trash burner.

He recovered the charred money, mailed it to Washington and got back full value.

These are actual cases from the files in Washington, D. C., of a group of about 30 Treasury department workers, all women who have earned the nickname, "money doctors who cure sick banknotes". Their daily job is unique and fascinating for they serve as fortune finders for the entire nation.

THEIR RESPONSIBILITY is to piece together, identify and redeem banknotes that have been badly burned, torn to shreds by explosions, or rotted as the result of long storage underground.

The women, classified as redemption specialists, work in the redemption division of the treasurer of the United States, situated near the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

In an average year the division retrieves from $4 million to $8 million worth of currency. Every day the division receives 150 to 300 separate batches of mutilated, rotted or scorched banknotes.

A visit to this unique establishment taxes your credulity. For instance, you'd scarcely think of looking into a water pipe for roll of money, now would you? Frequently the money doctors receive pieces of water pipe containing wads of rotting paper currency.

Another private banking place for the rural resident is the oven of the family cookstove. The matrons place their savings there, forget about it, then light the fire to cook a meal.

MANY FARM WIVES send in sugar bowls, baby's banks and tin boxes, all badly scorched and filled with money fragments and ashes. Pepper shakers have contained as much as $600 in burned currency. Some years ago an Ohio woman placed $39 in small bills in a drinking glass. The house burned down and the intense heat liquefied the glass around the money.

Mrs. Bertha Cordell, Treasury redemption expert, examines U. S. currency which was charred during the bombing of Warsaw in World War II. Thanks to her, almost $40,000 of its value was reclaimed.

The redemption team had to break the glass and pry out the banknotes. Every dollar was redeemed.

Incidentally, how did the men make out in the case mentioned earlier? Did they retrieve any of their lost money? Yes, every penny.

The Ohio farmer killed his calf and found inside it his half-digested banknotes. He rushed them to Washington and within three weeks received a check. As for the fellow in Atlanta, he put the currency and ashes in a tin box, mailed them in, and received full value.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST batches of charred currency ever worked on in the division was received following World War II. Consisting of seven packages of U. S. banknotes, scorched during the bombing of Warsaw, it bore the notation, "Worth approximately $30,000." Actually, however, a redemption specialist reclaimed almost $40,000.

Charred banknotes must be carefully sifted to avoid breaking up the currency, which is very brittle. The ashes themselves are worthless, for they defy identification.

After the sorting the fortune finders examine each part of the bills and mount the pieces on paper the size of the original notes in approximately their original positions.

Once mounted on paper, the fragments are measured to see if three-fifths of the original bill is present.

If over three-fifths is on hand then the bill will be redeemed for its full value.

When there is "clearly less than three-fifths and clearly more than two-fifths of a bill the claimant

TV To Present Drama Born In Communist Prison Cell

NEW YORK (AP) — What would you do to preserve your sanity if you were locked in a Communist prison cell for five years with never a glimpse of daylight?

To keep from going mad, Hermann Field, an American architect who confronted these conditions in Poland from 1949 to 1954, joined with a Polish cellmate, Stanislaw Mierzenksi, in narrating and finally writing novels. One of their joint works, "Angry Harvest," has now been published to widespread critical acclaim.

Tonight Kraft Theatre (NBC-TV) presents a television dramatization of that novel by David Davidson. It concerns the dilemma of a prosperous Polish farmer who shelters a young Jewish girl fleeing from the Germans in World War II.

"You go downhill quickly," Field said in describing the conditions under which he began creating novels. "That, of course, is what they want you to do. I think survival depends on your finding a 'think world.'"

One night, after a long period of passing time thinking about everyone and everything he ever had known, Field awakened to find that he had a cellmate. For weeks neither spoke, each fearing that the other was a stool pigeon.

As they gradually gained confidence and talked, Field learned that the other prisoner was a Polish journalist named Mierzenksi.

Field knew no Polish and Mierzenksi no English, but both spoke German. In that language they whispered for months (since their jailers forbade their speaking aloud), exhausting everything they knew.

"Finally we took to fantasy," said Field. "We began making up stories, dramatic situations which the other would try to resolve. Growing more ambitious, we whispered and committed to memory notes at all, since the moisture in them causes the notes to stick tightly together.

5 Ohioans Receive Honors For Outstanding Bravery

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Five Ohioans have been honored for their outstanding bravery, the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission announced Tuesday.

Bronze medals were awarded to Lawrence R. Newsom, deceased; Thomas Riley Jr., and Eldridge R. Hanning, both of Nelsonville; Peter N. Gonatas, Rt. 1, Salem, and Donald E. Arn, Rt. 1, Lewis-town.

Newsom was killed as he, Riley and Hanning tried to save the life of a coal miner. The latter had crawled into a three-foot auger hole drilled 40 feet horizontally into an exposed coal vein on a hillside near Kimberly (Athens County), Ohio, on Oct. 12, 1956. The miner, Paul Chorniak, was overcome by deadly gas fumes after crawling into the hole. Newsom crawled in after him and also was overcome. Hanning, unaware that Newsom attempted to rescue Chorniak, crawled into the hole and became the third man to overcome.

Riley summoned help from another coal company, then went into the hole after the three men. He managed to tie a rope around Hanning's foot before he too was overcome. Hanning and Riley were pulled out safely. Firemen donned gas masks and removed the bodies of Newsom and Chorniak.

Gonatas, 47, saved four men from suffocation after they were overcome by sewage gas in a manhole. The accident occurred in Salem Aug. 27, 1956. Gonatas went into the manhole with a rope, tying it around each of the four men who were then lifted out. Gonatas was the last to leave.

Arn, a truckdriver, swerved his truck off the road to avoid a collision with a school bus carrying 15 children. The bus started across the highway, in front of Arn, from an intersecting road. The truck was demolished and Arn was hospitalized with severe lacerations on his face. His left arm was amputated. The accident occurred near Lima, Ohio, Oct. 2, 1957.

Dulles Deplores Armament Race

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles says, "We must not accept an armaments race, as it is to be the greatest military power were a worthy goal."

Dulles, addressing a dinner of the Military Chaplains' Assn. Tuesday night, said: "We must not seek that scientific education and applications monopolize the minds of our youth, as though other values did not matter."

"We must not accept the quantity of consumers' goods—automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, radios and the like—to be the decisive measure of our society, as though its spiritual content were unimportant."

Mrs. Quick said she has written to Missouri Atty. Gen. John M. Dalton to find out how to get a state investigation of her three friends.

Mayor Powell, Alderman Polk and Robie said they have no intention of resigning.

Plan for Future, Local Leaders Told

POINTING OUT that Ohio State has been contacted on the branch college idea by 77 Ohio communities, Arisman said that OSU, which asks that losses up to $10,000 be underwritten by the local community before establishing such centers, assesses the potential cooperation of school boards, school superintendents, the Chamber of Commerce and industry in locating branch colleges.

The Washington C. H. Board of Education has been negotiating with Ohio University for the establishment of a branch college in Fayette County, but efforts to interest a minimum of 100 full-time students have not as yet met with success.

Branch colleges, Arisman said, provided the same quality of instruction as the university itself, bring local libraries up to approved standards and make modern scientific equipment available to those high schools which are used as centers.

Such a plan, he indicated, would provide real opportunity for Fayette County where only 11 per cent of college-age people attend universities as compared with 43 per cent in Franklin County.

The speaker also discussed continuing developments in higher education in schools and homes through TV programming, and a question-and-answer session brought out the point that one Ohio educator has declared that a high school which are not wired for classroom TV will soon be rendered as obsolete.

DUCEY PREFACED a comprehensive survey of the Ohio-Fayette County tax-spending picture with an observation that taxation and legislation generally can either contribute to, or destroy, advantages of natural resources and geography.

"It is an inescapable fact," he said, "that an expanding economy will require more tax money for the operation of government, and the question constantly requiring review is whether expenditures are growing at a rate which exceeds the growth of the economy and the city's tax rate above 30 mills.

THE TOTAL county-city tax duplicate for 1957 is $34,519,899 (64 per cent from real estate, 14 per cent from public utilities and 22 per cent from tangible personal taxes) and is subject to taxes totaling $1,182,839 levied by local governments purposes.

Other 1957 local government expenditures include $504,257 from State School Foundation funds, approximately $600,000 for hospital operation plus local government funds allotted by the state (including sales tax), additional spending for roads and streets from gasoline tax funds and other expenditures from such service funds as the city's sewer fund which comes from rentals paid by property owners.

The total expenditure in Fayette County for local government runs ability of the taxpayers to pay."

"The question," he added, "can only be answered by an examination in each local taxing unit. It is at this level that the voter can make the best informed decision as to approval or disapproval of tax-spending programs."

STATEWIDE AVERAGES, he pointed out, show that the costs of local government in the 1945-54 period rose 188 per cent for counties, 190 per cent for cities and 228 per cent for schools. In the same period the Ohio tax base increased 86 per cent and individual incomes 85 per cent.

Ducey produced these startling figures on the Fayette County tax base:

In 1926 the assessed value of land in all of Fayette County was $26,836,720 and the value of buildings was $9,802,660 for a total of $36,639,380.

The 1957 valuation of land was down to $22,357,930 while the value of buildings rose to $18,438,960 for a total of $40,795,890.

The 1926 valuation for Washington C. H. alone was $3,065,470 on land and $5,385,050 on buildings for a total of $8,450,520.

The city's land valuation for 1957 was up only to $3,099,530 and the building valuation total had doubled to $10,782,980 for a current real estate valuation of $13,882,510.

THE TOP 1957 Fayette County rate is 21.60 mills while the city rate is 24.10 which does not include millage for retirement of the new school construction bonds. Addition of a proposed 3.60 mill levy for teacher salaries, which goes before the voters in May, would bring the city tax rate above 30 mills.

Six Ohio counties levied over 30 mills in 1957, and Ohio's taxing district rates range from a low of 10.15 in one Pickaway County district to a high of 46.20 in one Cleveland area.

Using the city as an example,

Ducey explained that 2.49 per cent of the total levy goes to the state, 14.52 to the county, 63.90 to the city school district and 19.09 per cent to the city government itself.

The speaker explained the taxpayer's protection procedures as prescribed by law and urged that citizens keep scrutiny on taxes and expenditures, but he added that taxpayers should not close the eyes to additional taxes for necessary expansion.

Kitty Sitter Keeps Busy in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Mrs. F. X. Ritchie, a white-haired little widow, is a kitty sitter.

"Yes sir, I've raised and loved cats ever since I was a little girl, and that's been a long time ago," she said. "When I was a youngster, we lived in St. Louis and we had 17 cats at one time, most of them strays."

"Now I didn't ever plan to become a kitty sitter. One day I met my friend, Mrs. Jane Connard, on the street. She's a buyer for a department store and goes East to market four times a year. The day I met her she was all upset over having to leave her two black cats when she went to New York again."

"It always frightened the cats to be carried out of the house to a pet boarding house."

"Jane said, 'Now, why couldn't you come and stay with Cookie and Pidge in my apartment?' That started my kitty sitting career."

Lithuanian Girl Doing OK As Student of Engineering

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A comely, 17-year-old Lithuanian girl has shattered tradition at Los Angeles State College. She is enrolled in the department of engineering and doing exceptionally well in a field seldom invaded by women.

Nida Balsys, one of the prettiest girls on the campus, will be a graduate engineer in two years, and what's more, she's going to work at it.

"I'll probably try to get a state job, to start with," she says of her future career. "I expect to encounter some prejudices against my sex in this field of work, but it's the kind of work I like, and I'm staying with it."

Prof. Leslie Cromwell, head of the engineering department at Los Angeles State, agrees that Nida will stay with it and get the job done.

"I just couldn't believe she was serious when she came into my office two years ago and said she was enrolling for engineering," Cromwell says. "She was only 15 and just out of Immaculate Heart High School. I thought she's probably change to dramatics or some other major after the first semester, especially with the heavy study load that we impose. Furthermore, she seemed too pretty to be much of a student."

"But I was wrong. The only favor she asked was permission to increase the number of courses she was taking."

Nida and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Balsys, came to the United States eight years ago after escaping from their homeland. All their relatives are behind the Iron Curtain.

Nida ranked above 98 per cent of her class in college entrance requirements, although younger than most. Since entering college she has carried an average of 21 hours a semester, four more than the average student, and her grade average is just under "A."

Besides brains, Nida has beauty and form. She's a blonde, 5-feet-2, has blue eyes, and, says Prof. Cromwell:

"I think we're going to persuade her to run for homecoming queen next year. She doesn't want to, says she's too busy. But I know of 450 votes in the engineering department that are hers already."

Smart Girl Never Attempts To Change Man, Actor Says

By VIVIAN BROWN

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — If your man adores wide open spaces, don't try to wean him away. It won't work anyway. It's better that you learn to like his green pastures, says singer and movie actor Guy Mitchell, an outdoor man, and proud owner of a 17,000-acre ranch near here.

"An easy way to lose a man," he says, "is to insist he give up a life he loves. Even if you are shy about sports, riding a horse, for instance, try to learn anyway. Admit you are a beginner, let your boy take the lead rope, and he'll feel like a knight."

It's a good idea, though, not to take lessons from a boy you like. "You'll think every valid criticism is a personal affront," says Mitchell, who found out by trying to teach his own wife.

On the other hand, don't try to impress your friend, if you are a neophyte, by asking for a spirited horse at the riding stables. He'll know the difference, and you'll just be miserable riding over your head.

"The first-time rider would do well not to ride a horse from public stables," he says. "It's better to ride a horse that a friend owns, or one at a dude ranch. Don't let her be a ladylike, asking for the mounting block, etc."

Every guy pictures himself as adventurous, says Mitchell, and women should go along with the idea to help prove he is a hero.

"So you don't like mouse hunting, and he does," says Mitchell, "stay in camp and read a book, while your man is out bagging a record moose. He'll have to talk it over with someone when he gets back to camp, and he'd rather it was you."

Your job is to look pretty, he says. No man objects to a girl dressing like a big game hunter, first-time delinquents. I'll take a few incorrigible no-gooders, too," says Mitchell, "just to see what'll happen when a boy gets away from it all. The worst kid in the world can change under the influence of dog, horse and good fresh air. Most kids who act bad are just good actors."

BETTSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — They hatch a tough egg, in these parts. A truck owned by the North Central Egg and Poultry Co. careened off Ohio 12 near here, slid 537 feet along a roadside ditch and knocked down two utility poles. Police said not a single egg was broken.

"THE COMPLETE VARIETY STORE"

All Major Furnishings Lines Available in Local Stores

Mrs. Barbara Thompson, is shown viewing this beautiful Fruitwood bedroom suite by Kroehler. Also available in matching pieces are end tables, night stand, cedar chest and others to complete the group. Available at Holthouse Furniture.

It is ironic in these days when overhead in metropolitan areas is tremendous. This included property, personnel, advertising, utilities and in some instances freight districts for very good reason that shoppers still feel they must drive to large cities to purchase their furniture.

These stores have made these moves that they may honestly and extensively advertise, "Lower Prices as We Have Lower Overhead."

The people of Fayette County are fortunate in living in just such an area, yet some drive many miles for the questionable privilege of paying higher prices than offered locally.

All major furniture lines in various price lines are available in this area, with the possible exception of some expensive custom type furnishings.

In the event that such furnishings are desired, however, local stores make the same provisions as their metropolitan counter parts. They will be glad to escort their potential buyer to the plush showrooms in the neighboring cities which handle only this type of thing.

Even in these instances, there is an advantage to buying through your local furniture dealer rather than through a metropolitan store, as your selections will be sold to you on the slim margin of profit asked by the local dealer rather than the far greater mark-up necessary to his urban competitor.

SIX — Is the outside of your house gleaming with paint? Though individual, does your color scheme fit in with adjoining houses? Has your porch and garden furniture been paint-freshened this year? Are your garden tools an attractive identifying color rather than a chipped-off brown?

SEVEN — Do you sweep the alley back of your house periodically to eliminate broken glass and spilling trash?

Stunning Cold Spell Bluffs Beekeepers

BLOOMFIELD, N. J. — Winter took the sting out of millions of bees in hives across the state.

Paul Schindler, a beekeeper, said the extreme prolonged cold paralyzed the bees. Millions starved to death in hives when they were unable to reach honey, only inches away.

Are You a Good Neighbor?

Can You Pass Neighborliness Exam?

Are you a good neighbor?

Here's a simple way to find out. Just answer the seven questions below.

All "yes" answers mean you are the sort of person everyone would like to live next to. Even one "no" indicates you disregard those living closest to you.

Here's the test:

ONE — Do you cut your grass regularly, dispose of leaves, weeds, and cuttings neatly, prune trees and get rid of dead branches? Is your alley-side as attractive as your front yard thanks to cleanliness and the camouflage of flowers?

TWO — Are your porches and steps sturdy and recently painted, your concrete walks even and free from cracks, your railings firm?

THREE — Is your garage clear of greasy rags, flammable materials, piles of paper and junk? Is the garage a storage spot for the car plus neatly placed tools rather than an enclosed junk heap? Is your garage door sturdy? Have the windows been washed recently? Have you oiled the door?

FOUR — Do you have separate systems installed before the appliances became so widespread in homes throughout the country. The most obvious symptoms of overloading trouble are fuses blowing, flickering picture on TV, fading lights, slowness of operation of appliances.

How Furnishings Men View the New Lines

Home furnishings men of Washington C. H. when queried as to what impressed them the most with furnishing lines displayed in this year's market replied as follows:

EDDIE KIRK of Kirk's Furniture: "I was most impressed with what they are doing with maple. Of course, it has always been outstanding in Early American type furniture but was offered this year in contemporary type furniture. It is beautifully done."

"Well, it is now possible to furnish your home throughout in beautiful and serviceable Early American or Colonial type furniture. Many of these pieces serve multiple uses and by sticking to one period, they may be changed from room to room. It is transitional furniture at its best!" commented Hubert Moore of Moore's Dream House.

TED KLINE of the Holthouse Furniture: "It is so livable and comfortable. Styling of the new furniture allows for easy arrangement. The color and fabric selection is almost limitless and it is more durable than ever before."

ROBERT CRAIG of Craig's commented, "I'm very impressed with the unusual color combinations in the new tweed carpets. They are outstanding but blend beautifully with most colored decors. In the drapery lines, the printing and design is much improved over any in the past."

WHITE BROADCLOTH ruffled curtains are creating new drama at windows. This is particularly true with Early American type furnishings. They are easy to care for and with imaginative use of both cafe length and the longer more formal lengths, it is possible to create many illusions," said BEN PAYTOR of Steen's.

RALPH TAYLOR, of Taylor's Barn, explained, "I favor the new Early American pieces, particularly the wing back chairs and sofas. This type of furniture is something that is timeless. The longer one owns it, the greater is the love for it. It is not subject to style changes or fads. Its livability is proven."

"I believe the buying public has created the new furniture. They are more style and color conscious than ever before. Consequently, the really new furniture is offered in an extremely wide range of color and is very high style," replied HOWARD MILLER of Ward's.

The variety of new home furnishings being displayed in Washington C. H. at the present time attests to the statements of all of these local authorities.

"The violet is New Jersey's state flower.

Room for Young In Clean-up

Community Project Helpful to Youth

The forthcoming Clean-up Paint-up, Fix-up campaign will give every child in Washington C. H. an unusual opportunity to participate in community living. W. A. Smith, superintendent of schools remarked today.

"During the next week, youth can be working side by side with city leaders, parents, and teachers. The youngsters can see first hand the problems encountered in any large scale operation, and gain respect for the city government and civic organizations as they see the problems overcome," Smith pointed out.

"However, the most important lessons in living are working cooperatively for the good of the whole and learning the responsibilities which match the privilege of citizenship," Smith declared.

Table Lamps Replace Overhead, Floor Models

Table lamps have with few exceptions replaced overhead or floor lamps. Lamps of newest design range from 24 inches to 48 inches in height and in every instance are quite a bit taller than the table upon which they rest.

Shades tend to pick up the colors and the essential lines of the base rather than offer any contrast. The majority of them are of fibre glass, which has a tendency to resist soil and does not fade or discolor from excessive exposure to light rays.

Where space does not permit the placement of a table, the tree light is proving very good.

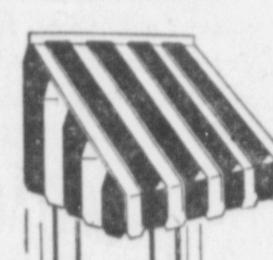

The most popular version of this consists of a black rod extending from floor to ceiling, to which are attached three brass lamps at various heights.

EQUALLY as effective for this purpose are the reel type fins which may be attached to either wall or ceiling and raised or lowered to desired height.

These are available in either very modern type lamps or Colonial. Many are with hurricane shade. There is such a lamp for any decor in either brass or copper finishes.

Home Decoration In Black, White

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

"What in the world am I going to do with a prospective husband who says he doesn't like color," asks a bride-to-be. "He likes black and white. But that's as far as he'll go."

Why not give the man black and white? It'll be easy to sneak in accessories in your favorite bright color, once you get your decor set.

The chances are the man has been living with garish colors, and a tastefully appointed home, and he's color-savvy. But give him a tastefully appointed home, and he'll take his colors like a man.

Women have long admired white on Hollywood screens, but knew it was prohibitive in their own homes. Now it is no longer a problem, with wonderful miracle fabrics, and new cleaning formulas.

A WHITE RUG always has been a thing of luxury, as any woman knows. But now anybody can own one. Cotton rugs may be laundered and tumble dried, nylon rugs may be cleaned with detergent and warm water on the floor, left to dry overnight; white rugs of other materials may be pre-treated to make wear and tear less.

One new cleaning instrument

Chamber Chief Sees Program As Civic Plan

Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is not just a week-long program but a guide for better civic living according to Walter Morrow, president of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce.

"The future of our city is dependent on the traits shown during our clean-up campaign: namely, cooperation, progressive, and energetic interest," Morrow declared.

"Through demonstration of these qualities in the next few weeks, we should set a pattern for the rest of the year," he said, adding:

Results we accomplish and the habits of cleanliness and beauty which we acquire will persuade tourists to stop over in our city, will create an environment which will attract new industry and citizens. New industry means many new jobs, with special opportunities for our youth.

"Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is, in reality, a key — a key to health, beauty, safety, fire prevention, new business, industry, and citizens. It's up to every citizen to help unlock the door to a bright future for Washington C. H.," Morrow said.

Federal Case

SUPERIOR, Wis. — Authorities in Wisconsin had to call officials in Minnesota to get permission to extinguish a truck fire. The vehicle developed an overheated tire and caught fire south of here. The truck, loaded with aluminum scrap, was sealed because it was on an international freight trip from Canada. So Sheriff Louis Bannick telephoned the customs office in nearby Duluth, Minn., to get permission to break the seal and fight the fire inside the truck.

Save Money: Paint Own Furniture

By FRED FIX-UP

An easy way to perk up your home, with little strain on the budget, is to purchase unpainted furniture and finish it yourself.

Room dividers are particularly effective in this furniture type, as well as sectional bookcases painted the same color as the wall to look as if they had been custom-built for the room. Other popular pieces are coffee tables and chests.

Before you begin the finishing process, put down newspapers or heavy wrapping paper on the floor and line up your materials.

First of all, make sure that all cracks and nail head indentations are filled with a wood filler or spackling material. Use a knife, putty or even kitchen variety, to

Clean-up Program Protects Health, Doctor Declares

Active support of the Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up program is a concrete way to protect your family's health, Dr. Benton Van Dyke Scott, Health Department physician declared today.

"By getting rid of trash and rubbish, obtaining covered garbage containers, disposing of old rotten wood piles, you will deprive rats of food and shelter," Dr. Scott advised.

"Vacant lot clearing projects, spraying operations, pond and swamp drainage will reduce the mosquito population tremendously. A vacant lot program would also rid the city of the greatest ragweed source, which would mean that hay fever would be minimized next fall," Dr. Scott added.

"Germs of many kinds will fall before the attack of scrub bucket and paint brush, and the community as a whole will be a healthier place in which to live. Particularly for the sake of our children, I urge everyone to participate fully in the campaign," the health leader said.

Once you have finished a few pieces, you will want to use your imagination and originality in the design.

You'll have fun, gain a real sense of accomplishment, and save money when you use unpainted furniture, coat it and coordinate it with your particular decorating scheme.

AS A first coating, apply thin shellac or thin varnish to seal the pores of the wood and to prevent subsequent coats from being unevenly absorbed.

The next step is to apply enamel undercoater if your finish coats are of glass or semi-gloss. Before you begin, make certain that the undercoater is thoroughly stirred so that the entire quantity is of uniform consistency.

When the undercoat is dry, apply the enamel by flowing it on from your brush. Load the brush heavy enough to do the job but not so much that you deposit a pool of the enamel where you first contact the surface.

Unfinished furniture comes in pine, fir, poplar, cypress, redwood, maple, birch, beech and gum. According to dealers, gum and pine are most widely sold. Gum may be stained to imitate walnut or mahogany, or it may be bleached.

You can stain pine to a rather good imitation of maple, but an enamel finish is usually preferred.

IF YOU'VE admired the smart blonde furniture which is so popular, you can get the same effect with an unfinished piece, provided the wood is even in color. Bleach the article with a commercial chemical solution, available at paint dealers.

Use rubber gloves while applying the bleach with a rubber sponge. Wet the surface evenly.

Bleaches with a hydrogen peroxide base leave nothing in the wood to harm the finishing coats. When the wood is dry, sand it and finish with white shellac — then was if desired.

Ladders are handy tools around the home in maintenance and repair work, but like most tools, there is a right and a wrong way to handle a ladder. Avoid hazards by following these few hints and prevent accidents during Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up week, as well as throughout the year:

NEVER stand on the top of any step ladder. Make certain a step ladder is fully opened and locked before you use it. The bottoms of all ladders should be on a solid footing, or otherwise anchored securely.

TO BE SAFE, also place rung type ladders at proper pitch so the distance from the bottom of the ladder to the house is approximately one-fourth of the length of the ladder. (If angle is greater, the ladder may break, or, if too close to the house, the ladder may tip.)

SET LADDER properly to avoid the mistake of over-reaching or leaning too far to one side, which is dangerous. Always face a ladder when ascending or descending and don't carry large or heavy objects — use a rope lift. Grip ladder firm with hands and be certain your shoes and the rungs or steps of ladder are free from oil, grease or mud.

DO NOT use makeshift or patched-up ladders. Take good care of

Lauds Washington C.H. For Clean-up Program

Laurence Kiefer, Director of the National Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up Bureau, Washington, D. C., commended Washington C. H. for its forthcoming clean-up plans and pledged his organization's full assistance to the local campaign.

Kiefer advised Jaycee Jack Lyons, local chairman, of his appreciation for the city's support of the nation-wide program of civic beautification and betterment.

"In your Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up program, beginning today, you will be joining over 6,000 other progressive American towns and cities in an all-out fight against blight, slums, fire, accident, and disease. You will be practicing the American virtues of local initiative and responsibility. Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is a demonstration of faith in the future and faith in your own abilities to create that future to fit your desires," the director said.

"WE IN the capital are delighted that Washington C. H. is conducting a Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up program this year. Should you need us, we at national headquarters will be happy to advise you," Kiefer promised.

The national Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Bureau was organized in 1912 and has helped communities conduct clean-up campaigns in every state of the nation. Last year an estimated 80 million men, women, and children participated in the civic improvement program.

Oven Keeps House; Wife Can Clean-up

By CATHY CLEAN-UP
This dinner, which practically prepares itself, will give you a chance to relax after a day of cleaning, painting, and fixing up—and the picnic style will intrigue the children.

The star of your easy fix-up supper is oven-fried chicken, a dish which lets the oven tend to watching and frying. All you do is follow these easy steps:

CUT up one broiler-fryer chicken for frying; dip pieces in a mixture of one cup flour, two teaspoons salt,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper, two teaspoons paprika. Melt  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup butter or margarine in a shallow baking pan in a hot oven, 400 degrees. Remove baking pan from oven; put pieces of floured chicken in pan, turning to coat with melted fat.

Then bake skin side down in a single layer. Bake in 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Turn chicken and pour honey-butter sauce over the pieces. Bake another 30 minutes until tender, spooning sauce over chicken once during last 15 minutes of baking. Arrange chicken on platter and pour sauce over pieces.

TO MAKE honey-butter sauce: melt  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter in a sauce pan, add  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup lemon juice and  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup honey.

Baked potatoes (the chicken oven temperature is just right), a crisp tossed salad, oven-warmed rolls, coffee, milk, and ice cream will complete your menu. By using paper plates, you'll add to the picnic feeling and cut down the work load further.

With this quick, easy menu, you'll practically feel like a guest at your own dinner, thanks to the oven's work. And you will be rested to enjoy the evening and then ready to tackle more beautification projects tomorrow!

Dead Sea Scrolls Labeled Incomplete, but Valuable

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Writer

More than a decade has passed since a Bedouin shepherd stumbled over the first cave hiding place of the Dead Sea Scrolls, the find of the century in Biblical archaeology.

Scholarship and technology have had time to examine many of the 2,000-year-old leather and copper documents and attempt a tentative answer to the absorbing question:

Do the scrolls shed any new light on Christianity?

Yes, says Frank Moore Cross Jr., archaeologist and Old Testament scholar and author of the latest book on the scrolls, "The Ancient Library of Qumran."

But it's a qualified yes. Cross is the first to admit his book is incomplete.

The scrolls, most scholars agree were not the work of early Christians but of a Jewish sect called Essenes which inhabited the Qumran community shortly before and shortly after the birth of Christ. The Essenes were an apocalyptic sect—believers in the imminent triumph of righteousness on the ashes of the current evil world—and therein, says Cross, lies the importance of the scrolls.

The primitive Christian church was apocalyptic too.

"We would do well, therefore," writes Cross, "if we are to understand (the) motives in her structure and thought, to discover the faith and forms of the apocalyptic communities which preceded Christianity."

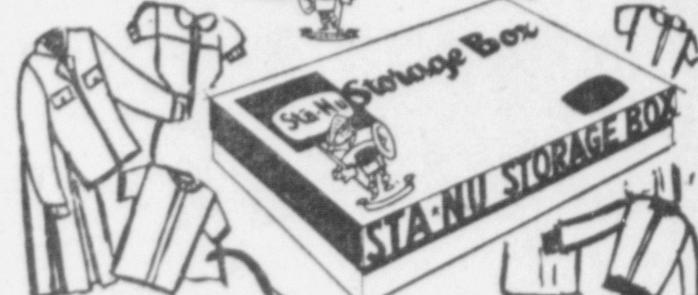

As a result of the scrolls, the life and times of a community similar to the early Christian church "can now be investigated seriously for the first time."

Cross notes a common theological language and concept of dualism (light vs. darkness, truth vs. error) running through the scrolls and the New Testament, particularly the Gospel of John.

The major difference, of course,

Youth Club Activities

The Christians had their Messiah; the Essenes were still waiting for theirs—which may explain why Christianity survived the centuries while the Essenes perished. The Essenes vanished as both a community and a sect during the Jewish revolt against Rome about 68 A.D. when Christianity was turning out to the world.

A Little Imagination Goes a Long Way

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The difference between a beautiful attic and a dingy garret may be the imagination. So, too, with other areas in the home.

One test of home decorating acumen is to visit a home decorated by different people at different times.

I have one living room in mind, a typical example.

The first occupant of the house did the room in living colors—a vivid blue on the walls, a burundy red rug, upholstered furniture in blues and beiges. The room was furnished with gentle taste, not flamboyant, but cozy.

The second occupant put a large Oriental rug on the floor, then proceeded to "decorate" around it. You'd look hard for color in the room except two chairs was gray-upholstery, slipcovers, wall paper and draperies. The two chairs were covered with a dull wine fabric, the color chosen, they said, from the rug.

IT WAS a depressing room that always had the look of a mausoleum and the dreariness of room eventually affected the new tenants. They were never happy, and soon parted from the house and each other.

Test your own decorating prowess, by doing over a small section of a room, foyer, bathroom or other small area, if you've been timid about putting your imagination to work on a larger area.

Plan the colors, fabrics, woods and metals before you start, so the whole scheme will be cheerful and compatible.

There are so many innovations for do-it-yourself enthusiasts these days, that you can do a test area at little cost, and effort.

New plastic wall tiles come in unusual shapes—a wedge-styled trapezoidal for instance, may be employed to create an interesting pattern on any flat surface. These modern mosaics would be particularly adaptable for one wall of a room.

OTHER MATERIALS in the luxury wall styling group include a rich wall treatment that is vinyl plastic, soft and flexible, but it may be applied with wallpaper paste. For all the deceptive appearance of elegance, these wall coverings are easy to put up, resist scuffing and may be scrubbed. They are backed with resin-treated cotton fibers laminated to prevent shrinkage.

If you are unhappy about your present decor, talk it over with the man of the house. Discuss colors that are mutually attractive. Then decide how you can improve an area.

It may be a little joggling up that is needed—new slipcover, lamp shade, draperies, a small paint job or wall covering.

Choose an easy experiment as a starter. Once you get the hand of improving your living conditions at little cost and effort, no one will be able to stop you.

The Battle of Trenton, Washington's first major victory in the Revolutionary War, lasted only 45 minutes.

NOT A CATASTROPHE—Dr. Frank E. Miller and his assistant, Sue Lafferty, examine a tortoise-shell Persian cat named "Topaz," which fell out of a ninth-floor apartment window in Chicago. "Topaz" received only a cracked tooth and four swollen paws. (International)

Fire Chief Asks Trash-Burners To Be Careful

City Ordinance
Cited Along with Hints for Safety

The yard and garden spring clean-up program is at hand and Fire Chief George R. Hall endorses it completely.

But he urges that care and caution be used when it comes to burning trash and rubbish.

If you burn trash he suggests these precautions:

1. Never light or kindle an outdoor fire on a windy day.
2. Attach your garden hose to your water system, keep it in readiness until the fire is completely out, or keep a few buckets of water handy in case you do not have any garden hose. A wet broom is also a handy tool to fight a spreading rubbish or grass fire.
3. Burn whatever trash or rubbish you have in a metal oil drum with a half-inch screen or hardware cloth placed over the top of the drum to prevent sparks from getting out and spreading.

4. Set the drum well away from any buildings, fence, or tall grass. Keep children away and stay with your fire until it is well out or the ashes are cool enough to touch. Then you are pretty safe.
5. Keep the fire department's phone number handy so you will lose no time in case that your fire, or your neighbor's fire, gets out of control.

THE CITY does not have as strict a regulation covering the burning problem as do some cities of like size or population. Here is the Washington C. H. ordinance covering bonfires:

"It is declared to be unlawful for any person to ignite, burn, or set fire to any leaves, debris, garbage, rubbish or trash on any paved street or sidewalk in the city at any time; or to ignite, burn, or set fire to any leaves, debris, rubbish or trash at any other place within the city except between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. Such fires shall at all times be properly safeguarded so as not to cause damage or a nuisance to any person or property. At all other times, except as provided herein, such fires must be thoroughly quenched and not permitted to smoke or smoulder. (Ordinance No. 688. Passed 12-14-1955.)"

"Whoever violates this chapter shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than $50."

Wilmington is more strict. That city's ordinance says:

"No person shall kindle or maintain any bonfire or rubbish fire or authorize any such fire to be kindled or maintained on or in any public street, alley, road or other public road without a written permit from the chief of the fire department.

"No person shall kindle or maintain any bonfire or rubbish fire or authorize such fire to be kindled or maintained on any private land unless the location is not less than 50 feet from any structure and adequate provision is made to prevent fire from spreading to within 50 feet of any structure or the fire is contained in an approved waste burner with closed top, located safely not less than 15 feet from any structure.

"Except as otherwise hereinabove provided, no person shall kindle or maintain any bonfire or rubbish fire or authorize any such fire to be kindled or maintained except between the hours of 6 a. m. and 6 p. m., and such fires shall be completely extinguished at or before 6 p. m.

"The chief of the Fire Department may prohibit any or all bonfires and outdoor rubbish fires when the atmospheric conditions or local circumstances make such hazardous.

"Another section states that "no person shall kindle a fire upon the land of another without the permission of the owner or his agent."

FITTING INTO any travel plans is Ship 'n Shore's tailored "Travelmate" blouse that needs no ironing. It has vertical ombre-type stripes woven in dacron and cotton with the added prettiness of a Chanel collar and pearl buttons.

Chief Sees Program As Crime Deterrent

Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up is not only a campaign for civic betterment and beautification but a means of reducing crime, Police Chief D. Vaiden Long said today.

"The Clean Up program lowers the crime rate in several important ways," Chief Long said. "First of all, it's good training in cooperation for our children and diverts their energy into productive directions. The youngsters learn respect for property and the enjoyment to be gained from working together for common goals."

Parkinson: Watch That Litterbug!

You throw away money if you drop litter on the streets of Washington C. H. City Manager James F. Parkinson disclosed today at the opening of the city's annual Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up program.

"Every piece of trash which is thrown in the street requires additional work for city employees. This delays other necessary chores of the street and sanitation departments which would be felt by every citizen."

"Use trash containers when you are a pedestrian and litter-bags in autos," Parkinson urged. "Don't let your tax dollars fall in the street. Instead let them work for you."

If everyone cooperates, our men can do more constructive work, resulting in better and more beautiful streets," Parkinson said.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Problems Probed

Perplexed by Paint? Pshaw!

By PAUL PAINT-UP
With the advent of Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up time, you're probably planning to wield a paint brush or roller. To save time money, and paint, you should have an accurate idea of the paint you'll need.

The first figures to remember are the average spreading rates for paint:

One gallon covers approximately 500 square feet;

One quart covers approximately 125 square feet;

One pint covers approximately 65 square feet;

1/2 pint covers approximately 30 square feet;

1/4 pint covers approximately 15 square feet;

More exact figures are indicated on each container.

TO ESTIMATE the amount of gallonage required for a room, you multiply the length of the room by the height and double the total. Then you multiply the width of the room by the height and that total is doubled. Your two totals added together are the area of all four walls.

A window or door is not deducted unless it is greater than 100 square feet in size. If you have picture windows in your room or a greater number of windows and doors than average, you should make a deduction.

Ceiling and floor are determined by simply multiplying length by width.

To determine the quantity of material which will be needed, you divide the total number of square

Easy Way out

RICHMOND, Ky. (AP) — When Mrs. Homer Purkey was married, she agreed to wash the dishes for 20 years, then her husband would take over.

Homer is fulfilling his part of the agreement the easy way. He bought a dishwasher feet in an area by the coverage the desired type of coating provides.

Idaho State College in Pocatello has 654 married students, about 32 per cent of the student body.

Cabinets and radiators are a special consideration. On cabinets, measure the front area and multiply by five while radiators require that you measure the front area and multiply by seven.

FOR THE exterior you follow a similar procedure as you did inside. Multiply length by height, doubling that figure, then multiplying the width by height and then by two and adding the two results.

Gables or any triangular-shaped surface, measure the width and multiply by one-half of the height. This total should be added to the 2,520 square feet figure.

The range of coverage of type of finish recommended (indicated on the can), the number of coats, the type and condition of surface all must be considered.

With these ideas in mind, you will find paint estimating less of a mystery and as a result, you'll avoid waste and save money.

New Upholstered Furniture

Places Emphasis on Texture

The preponderance of browns and grays in new upholstered furniture has created greater emphasis on texture. Variations in textures introduces necessary interest in a monochromatic background.

SHIE IS primarily concerned with well constructed functional type furniture; which may with some frequency be slip-covered or reupholstered to match a changing decor.

Cold Sweat

PONCA CITY, Okla. — Bob Duroy, who lives north of here, awoke to see flames leaping from his water pump house a short distance from his home.

He raced outside in sub-freezing weather, pushed over the burning building, and doused the flames with three buckets of cold water.

Then he remembered: He had run out in shorts, undershirt and bare feet.

Unemployed? Need Job? Stay Away from Alaska

Central Press Assn
ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Alerted by the flood of mail and wire inquiries, and fearing a deluge of unemployed workers, the Alaska Council of Carpenters has joined with other labor unions in warning hopeful stateside workmen that reports of massive construction work here are just a lot of northern lights.

The council's warning says bluntly that Alaskan residents workmen on hand will be given preference when the 1958 construction season opens, and that there is no indication of a manpower shortage, in spite of an oil boom, and whisperings of vast new radar warning systems and even missile bases.

Alaska's current unemployed ranks aggregate 7,700, which compares with 5,950 a year ago. Also, it has been noted that an unusually large number of seasonal workers who ordinarily winter in Alaska have left for the "outside" in a steady trickle all through this winter.

Meanwhile, the price of raw metals has closed all but the richest yielding mines up here, and even last summer, there was a local surplus of mine, construction, and highway labor.

PETE LANNEN, executive secretary of the Alaska Council of Carpenters, has warned Stateside workers bluntly not to be misled by glowing construction pictures painted by irresponsible news media and by transportation groups interested only in your fare here and completely unconcerned with your welfare after you arrive."

Cost of living figures point up his statement. Costs in Anchorage are about 35 per cent higher than Stateside, and at Fairbanks, run 50 to 60 per cent higher.

Worse, at the peak of the summer season, all prices are on a transient basis, and there is likely to be overcrowding.

Possibly smitten with boomer guilt, Lannen's union adds to its broadcast warning, "However, if you insist upon coming to Alaska, we advise that you bring your fishing gear and sufficient funds for a extended vacation."

Woman Signals, Loses Jewelry

CLEVELAND (P) — A woman told police Monday night that a man snatched a diamond ring and wrist watch she was wearing when she extended her arm from her car signaling a left turn.

Mrs. Ray L. Maylin, 37, of suburban Cleveland Heights, said she had stopped for a traffic light and had her left arm out for the turn when a man grabbed her arm and stripped the jewelry from her. She valued it at $800.

TRUE, OIL has been struck on the Kenai peninsula, and a second well has been brought in.

Eighteen major oil companies and a dozen wild catters are active in the territory. However, local labor unions are pointing out, oil development and drilling is highly specialized work, and companies employ and bring up their own experienced gangs from the States.

It will be many months, perhaps years, before there is a rush need for extra help for clearing roads and pipeline rights of way.

Dayton Police Identify Body

DAYTON (P) — A body pulled from the Miami River has been identified as that of Fred M. Roby, 33, of Dayton, police report.

Roby's body was found Monday floating near the bank of the river close to downtown Dayton. Police identified him through his fingerprints.

Police said Roby was arrested April 7 and charged with assault with intent to rob. The charge was dropped, however, when it was learned Roby needed hospitalization. Police said Roby's wife intended to take him to the Veterans Hospital here on April 8 but he disappeared that morning.

Wilson Named Most Valuable Gridder

WHS Athletes Receive Honors at Assembly

Jim Wilson, the slight, dexterous Washington High School football ace, was named "Most Valuable Player of the Year" by Head Grid Coach Fred Domenico at an honor assembly in the school Tuesday.

Wilson, 160-pound lineman who played both line and backfield positions in his 1957 season, received the Washington C. H. Rotary Club Plaque as a permanent memento of his accomplishment. The plaque was presented to WHS Principal N. K. Blosser by John Elcessor for the club.

Co-captain of the Lion grididers last year, Wilson was actually just one of many athletes honored in the assembly. Among the others was Tom Swaim, who was named several weeks ago as the Most Valuable Basketball player of the year.

Recognition was given to athletes in all sports. Letters had been presented previously, but this was the first chance the athletes had a chance to show themselves formally — and out of uniform — to their fellow students.

Cheerleaders were also honored at the assembly, with the three senior leaders — Janet Emrick, Marianne Mouser and Jean Conaway — receiving special senior awards. Helen Brown received a varsity cheerleading honors along with the seniors. Reserve cheerleaders honored were Pat Benson, Janice Brown, Connie Hunter, Eileen Picklesimer and Nancy Underwood.

Domenico, as track coach, presented awards to the 13 WHS tracksters who had a string of seven victories without a defeat in 1957. They were Jack Crabtree, Kenny Evans, Raney Foster, Bob Hunter, Phil Johnson, Roger McLean, Dan Miller, Bill Southworth, Tom Swaim, Gilbert Thomas, Phil

Williams, Jim Wilson and Jack Wilson.

NINE AWARDS were presented to members of the 1957 baseball squad by Herb Russell, head baseball coaching. Recipients were Jack Anders, Bud Lynch, Bill Crooks, Bob Huff, Dick Welch, Bill Herman, Mike Lawrence, Roger Shackleton and Bob Burris. Ron Coffman was honored as the baseball manager.

There were 25 boys receiving junior high football awards from Coach Russell. They were Carl Anders, Dennis Allis, Dan Bruckles, Dave Bruckles, Douglas Bray, Randy Bolton, Dwight Brown, Butch Conaway, Harry Detweiler, John Enochs, Clem Edwards, Steve Flee, Bob Helfrich, Terry Hige, Jerry Hamby, Mike Kelly, Rex Kneller, Jack Lyton, Ken Miller, John McLean, Jerry Powell, William Paul, Jerry Phillips, Eddie Rose and John Thomas. Managers honored were Ken Arnold and Paul Preston.

Marvin Merritt presented awards to the 10 junior high basketball players, who were Doug Bray, Dwight Brown, John Enochs, Bob Helfrich, Bill Halliday, Ken Miller, Jerry Phillips, Jerry Powell, Eddie Rose and John Thomas. Managers honored were Ken Arnold and Paul Preston.

Managers of that squad are Harold Orthmeyer, Dick Willis and Jack Persinger.

Amateur Golf Test To Pare Field Sharply

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP) — Today was wicked Wednesday in the North and South Amateur golf tournament—the day 32 survivors of opening rounds faced two more rounds to pare the field to eight for quarterfinals Thursday.

Eighteen hole matches leave little margin for error and playing two in a day is hazardous for even the most accomplished.

The initial skirmishing was devoid of major surprises, leaving the medalist heading the pack.

Wayne Jackson, the Army private first class from Hampton, Va., who won the medal, swept the last four holes with pars against Bill Williamson of Charlotte to win, 4 and 3.

That qualified him for a second round meeting this morning with Walter Sezna, a four handicapper from Greenville, Del.

The winner faced an afternoon match with the survivor of a morning duel between Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and Herb Durham of Dallas, Tex. Campbell, winner last year, is after his fourth North and South crown.

Dale Morey of Indianapolis, 1955 Wilson Cupper, went against Don Blum of Macon, Ga., member of the '57 team.

The Detroit Tigers, could-be contenders, and the Kansas City A's, would-be contenders, have at it for the first time "tonight, after belting Chicago and Cleveland in the American League's early going.

The Tigers, with revived pitching, and the A's, off again on a spring home run binge, are in a virtual tie for second behind New York.

Bob Cerv hit two of the A's three homers as they whipped Cleveland for the fourth time in five tries Tuesday 9-6. Detroit was outhit 9-8, but backed up by Bill Hoef with five extra-base blows for an 8-2 decision over the White Sox. The Tigers are 4-1 vs.

Chicago.

The Yankees opened up for the first time, bombing Boston 12-7 for their sixth straight. Baltimore beat Washington 4-2.

The A's, tops in the AL with 11

home runs in seven games,

clinched their third straight on seventh. Cleveland's Rocky Cola-vito and Chico Carrasquel hit two-run homers. Cerv, scampering for an inside-the-park homer in the third, has hit all four of his '58

homers against Cleveland.

Hoef went all the way in his first victory as the Tigers tore into Early Wynn for four runs in the first, three on Charlie Maxwell's homer.

Seven runs in the fourth, on three triples and Gil McDougald's home run, bagged it for the Yankees, who also got a two-run homer from Norm Siebern in the eighth.

Jack Harshman, the ex-White

Sox southpaw, won his second for the Orioles with Billy O'Dell's relief.

Ballet Dancer Saddles Winners As Trainer of Racing Stable

LINCOLN, R. I. (AP)—From ballerina to racehorse trainer is the story of attractive Mrs. Mona McNaughton.

A ballet dancer who toured Europe and Australia and performed with the team of Manya and Drigo at New York and Chicago hotels 20 years ago, Mrs. McNaughton now campaigns a stable of four thoroughbreds at New England tracks.

Recently she won two purses at Lincoln Downs with Sir Rarco, an 8-year-old chestnut gelding. Earlier at Bowie in Maryland, she saddled the $2,000 claimer Astolfo, a 5-year-old gelding, to victory.

"My horses aren't really good enough to compete in New York so I'm a regular commuter to the New England tracks," Mrs. McNaughton began. "I've got two others in my stable—Diana Mac and Dainty Flirt."

"I always liked horses and I talked my husband, Glen N. W. McNaughton (New York attorney) into starting me out. He gave me $1,000 and I bought my first horse, Berwyn, at Charles Town, W. Va., in 1941. He was blind in his left eye yet won seven out of nine races for me."

"But before that I borrowed another $2,500 from Mr. McNaughton. I needed it or I would never have been able to make a go of it."

MONA YET her husband in New York where he was producing a play. He produced two and lost $40,000. He also had put a lot of money in yachts and Mona talked him into becoming a racing enthusiast.

Since then Mrs. McNaughton has raced throughout the East. A few years ago she won four races in 10 days at Gulfstream Park in Florida and last year she led the trainers at Scarborough Downs in Maine.

Her pretty daughter, Diana, 16, seems to be taking after mother. When the young lady isn't taking ballet lessons she helps mother with racetrack chores.

Mrs. McNaughton apparently has a way with horses for she has purchased $2,000 selling platters and had them win $4,000 claimers. One of these was Lonely Maid, a 1953 buy. The filly won $16,000, scoring five times under jockey Gill Hartack at Atlantic City, Gulfstream, Delaware Park and Charles Town. Sir Rarco and Astolfo both grossed more than $9,000 last year.

"I try to take horses from the larger stables," says Mona. "Sometimes these stables don't have time to pamper an invalid. I baby them along and when they can cover a good quarter-mile I know they're about ready to run."

How does a former ballroom dancer with a small farm in Charlottesville, Va., and a home in New York like the early hours of a horse trainer?

"Not bad," replies Mrs. McNaughton. "Training horses is quite stimulating, even at 5:30 in the morning."

Biggest Birch

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Milwaukee attorney believes he has found the largest white birch tree in the country.

Raymond Zillmer said the tree has a circumference of 7 feet 9 inches, compared with the present record tree in New Jersey of 4 feet 7 inches. The height of the Wisconsin tree, located at Mud Lake in the Cedarburg swamp north of here, is estimated at 62 feet.

Zillmer has submitted the measurements to the American Forestry Assn.

IT'S A HEART — This "heart"
(right) of plastic was used at Cleveland Clinic to keep a dog alive for an hour and a half.
It was made from a plaster cast impression of the dog's own heart. Experimenting with the plastic heart at the clinic are Dr. William J. Kolff (above,
Dr. Akutsu revealed the artificial heart at the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs meeting in Philadelphia.
Dr. Kolff heads the research project.

Mary Ann Hackett Gets Scholarship

11 Students Honored For Scholarship by Washington C. H. Lions

Eleven Washington C. H. High School students were presented keys, symbols of scholastic achievement, by the Washington C. H. Lions Club at its recognition dinner meeting Tuesday night at the Country Club.

And one of them, Mary Ann Hackett, was presented the club's $100 college scholars hip and key by her father, Clarence Hackett, a member of the club, at the request of Norris Highfield, club president, who presented the keys to the other 10 students.

Miss Hackett, a senior and an A student, was selected for the top honor and scholarship by the high school dean of girls, dean of boys and principal on the basis of scholarship, character leadership and extra-curricular activities.

The other 10 seniors on the "super-honor roll," who received keys were Josephine Peters, William Wead, Marianne Mouser, Joyce Lutz, John Rhoad, Harold Orthmeyer, Earl Palmer, Kathie Wright, Wanda Huff and Joyce Hamilton. All of them had maintained a scholastic average of 3.5 or better — 4.00 is the highest grade.

Robert Terhune, a member of the Board of Education, was chairman of the recognition dinner program. He introduced Dr. John Edward Coraboy Jr., professor education at Ohio State University, the principal speaker of the evening.

DR. CORBALOY, directing his talk almost entirely to the 11 honored guests, told them to "be proud of your scholastic ability" but cautioned them that "success in school alone does not mean that you have attained your goal."

He urged the seven girls and four boys "keep learning throughout your life" and pointed out that "many things thought to be impossible have been made possible because some people never stopped learning."

People with learning, he said, can be the leaders, but he emphasized that "to be a leader, you also must be human, because you will be a leader of humans."

At the meeting with the honor students were Superintendent of Schools W. A. Smith; Kay Blodser, high school principal, and Miss Marjorie Evans, W. H. S. dean of girls. Jack White, dean of boys, was unable to attend.

SEVENTY-NINE of the club members were at the meeting to extend congratulations to the young scholars. A shaggy Macomber of Greenville was a guest of C. W. Garrison for the meeting.

Club President Highfield, who conducted the short business meeting prior to the awards presentation, again urged the Lions to support the projected establishment of a branch college in Washington C. H. by Ohio University.

He pointed out that while it would provide an opportunity for high school graduates of this entire area to start their college education in their home community, courses also can be made available to adults who want to further their education with special training.

Supt. Smith explained the need of the city schools for the 3.6-mill levy on which the voters will pass at the May 6 primary election. He appealed to the Lions to support it, but did not ask the club to endorse it as an organization.

Maynard Wilson, chairman of the club minstrel, reported that the variety show staged two snowy nights in February will net "a little more than $1,200."

Primary Election Of C of C Here Is Now in Progress

Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce members are now selecting ten candidates for the coming election of five new directors.

All of the 276 names of Chamber members on the primary ballot sent out Tuesday by the election committee chairman headed by Ralph Bray, included only members living in Washington C. H. and Fayette County.

Ten names of the 276 members are women.

When Chamber members have returned their ballots with the ten names marked (the deadline for this is April 30), the Chamber's manager, William Stoughton, and the office staff will tabulate them. The 10 receiving the most primary votes will be the candidates for the board. The election ballots will be mailed to the members May 3.

Ralph Bray, Albert Bryant, Dustin Girton, A. H. Hutton and Paul Rodenfels are the five outgoing directors. Each director serves three years, under the staggered election system for the board, thus putting in a new third of the 15-member Board each year.

C. of C. Convention Committee To Meet

The convention and tourist committee of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce will meet at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday to select subjects for color postcards which will be used in promotional work.

George Blackmore is chairman of the committee.

Driver Arrested After Accident Passenger in Car Treated for Injuries

One woman was injured and her husband arrested in one of three traffic accidents reported in the city and county in the past 24 hours. One other local man was arrested in a fender-bender mishap.

Mrs. Raymond Nichols, 19, CCC Highway, west, was treated for a fracture of the left hand and cuts of the neck, arms and legs, and released from Memorial Hospital Tuesday night as a result of a one-car accident five miles north of Washington C. H. on Route 70 at about 8:45 p. m. Tuesday.

Her husband, Harry Raymond Nichols, 21, was arrested for reckless driving, after the accident in which the Nichols car skidded at a curve and went off the road, damaging fence and posts on the Harry Parrett farm and Ross Robison's mailbox.

Nichols appeared in Municipal Court Wednesday and was fined $25 and costs by Judge Max G. Dicke, after he pleaded guilty.

Judy Edgington and Pam Edgington, passengers in the Nichols car, received minor cuts in the accident.

Nichols told Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle that he was traveling "at about 70 miles an hour," when the car skidded and went out of control as it started around the curve. The car had moderate right side damage.
